Helping Seniors Apply for Food Stamps Workshop

Saturday, February 6, 2010

11:00 AM – 1:00 PM

JWJ Senior Center

2205 First Avenue

New York, NY

The Latino elderly have the smallest rate of participation in the Food Stamps program, even though 2 out of 3 Latino seniors retired under or near the poverty line, which translates into over 200,000 Latino seniors in New York City. The Latino Center on Aging is offering a series of workshops to help Spanish speaking elderly to get much needed Food Stamps. The entire neighborhood is invited for free. Homebound elderly and/or their caregivers are welcome to attend our workshops.

This effort is generously underwritten by: NYS Senator Ruben Diaz, Sr.; NYC City Council Speaker Christine Quinn, Council Members Maria del Carmen Arroyo and Melissa Mark-Viverito; and the Verizon Foundation.
